

Just askin'

What do you think would happen if instead of building mega-churches we built mega-homeless shelters and healing centers for those who are poor in finances and poor in spirit? What do you think would happen if churches would be giving out meal tickets instead of tickets for getting into heaven? What do you think would happen if churches had as their primary purpose the demonstration of Christ's love instead of the preaching about it? What do you think might happen if the churches began to practice the religion "of" Jesus, rather than just a religion "about" Jesus? Just askin'.
